A Serious Accident

On last Monday evening Col. M. P. Tribble and wife met with a most unfortunate and serious accident. They had White had been a consistent member of just arrived at the Baptist Church to atthe Methodist Church in this city for the past fifteen years. Her death is regretted Col. Tribble, intending to hitch his horse, which was a very gentle and trusted animal, removed the bridle to put on a halter without taking him out of the buggy. From some slight cause the horse became frightened and ran away, upsetting the buggy and tearing loose, after striking with terrible force at least two times against the Church. Mrs. Tribble, who was in the buggy, was thrown to the ground in getting out, and sustained one or two bruises about the head which were not serious, but Col. Tribble, in trying to hold the horse, was knocked down and sustained two or more severe blows on the forehead and right side of the head, which knocked him senseless. He was taken to Rev. T. P Bell's residence and several doctors imnediately summoned. His injuries were found to be very severe and dangerous, and he has been too ill yet to be removed. At this time (Thursday morning) he is thought to be a little better, and it is hoped he will rapidly improve, though there is still danger of inflammation of the brain. Col. Tribble has a host of friends who are very solicitous as to his condition, and anxiously hope that

A Visit to Hartwell, Ga.

A Visit to Hartwell, Ga.

Mr. Editor: Allow me space in your columns to mention a few of the pleasures of a recent visit to Hartwell, Ga. In company with H. G. Scudday, Esq., I left Anderson on the 1st inst. with the intention of arriving at our destination carly in the eve. Soon we were on the banks of Taylor's Creek, (5 miles west of Anderson,) and owing to the frequent rains the stream was very much swolen. We were advised by a boy not to attempt to cross, as it would be very dangerous. My companion suggested that we return to town and take a different route; but as I never liked to make a cross mark in the road and spit in it, I told him if he would unhitch the horse from the buggy I would mount and try the creek. The horse was soon out of harness, and the rider in position. The creek was not as deep as it appeared, and by careful driving we were able to cross. So much for having an equestrian along.

As we pursued our course we were impressed with the beautiful fields of grain, corn and cotton, which appeared to us as doing finely. But there had been too much rain, and the grass was making headway.

We crossed Savannah River about 6 p.

much rain, and the grass was making headway.

We crossed Savannah River about 6 p.
m., and an hour's drive brought us to the beautiful town of Hartwell. We were placed into the hands of Capt J. F. Craft, who was to be guardian during our stay. The object of our visit was to attend the Commencement Exercises of "Hartwell High School." After refreshments we wended our way to the Court House, where the exercises were to be held. The court room was packed, jammed and crammed. My companion secured a chair, and after some time I got a reserved seat on the mantelpiece, in the back of the room. The exercises consisted of charades, extracts, songs and calisthenics. Little Manie Craft, 18) years old, afforded the audience much amusement when abouncement when abouncement when abouncement with the saddened as (Wittit to Gradden).

children. Some good mothers brought their babes, and of course, to make the commencement a success, they would give vent to a few notes occasionally. Bless the little tiny things, how could we spare them on such occasions?

Mr. Scudday urged the importance of an education and discussed the Blair Educational Bill with great force. He seemed to be rapt up in his subject and held the audience spell bound for 50 minutes. I must say I never saw a more attentive audience and better behaved people in my life. The address was well received and heartily applauded. At 3 p. m. the Court House was again packed to hear the recitation by the young ladles. A prize had been offered for the best delivered recitation, and Miss Flora Craft carried off the honors, but she had strong competitors. Wednesday eve was devoted to charades, &c., and the audience gave each play a hearty applause. The calisthenic class sang a insewell song which was very touching, and then the commencement of the Hartwell High School was a thing of the past, but an occasion never to be forgotten by those who had the good fortune of being present. In conclusion, I must confess that I was charmed with Hartwell and her kind, generous and sociable people. The people of Bart County should be proud of Prof. Parker and his assistants. I hope ere long to hear of the "Hartwell College" in reality. Let the big headed men of Hartwell put their heads together and go to work in carnest.

Thursday morn about 5 o'clock we turned our faces homeward. We arrived at Mac Holland's in time for breakfast, Mac is keeping house by himself, and knows how to cook. He informed us that he had no cook, but would get up a breakfast if we couldswallow his cooking. We agreed to swallow, and in 30 minutes we were doing justice to our appetites. Six miles before breakfast will give anybody an appetite. Mac Holland is all right, and some good girl will find it out some of these days. We arrived home in time for dinner, and did not regret our trip to Georgia.

Anderson, S. C.—Mr. John E. Peoples—Sir: The Steam Power Van Winkle Cotton Press bought from you last Fall has given entire satisfaction. I packed bales of cotton weighing 660 to 725 lbs. in five minutes with all ease, using a 4-inch belt and 25 lbs. steam. There did not seem any more strain on the Press than with a 450 lb. bale. For durability, strength, lightness of power, small quantity of steam required, economy of space, I deem it the King of all (_ston Presses; especially so as the low price at which it can be bought for puts it within reach of every man running a steam Gin. In fact I would not be without it for twice its cost. I one of Van Winkle's Steam Power Cotton Presses, as

THE HALL SELF-FEEDING COTTON GIN.

THE HALL SELF-FEEDING COTTON GIN,

Manufactured at Sing Sing, N. Y., has given satisfaction wherey it used. The Saws are made of the best imported steel. The saw shaft is the largest made. An examination of other Gins will convince you it is the most substantially built Gin in use. It never breaks the roll, and therefore does away with the expense of the revolving head, as the secret of making the Gin to prevent its breaking the roll is in the proper shape of the roll-box. Every one should examine the improvements in the Hall Gin made this year, especially the improvement in the Feeder. Below I give you a few names of those who

Van Winkle King Cotton Press

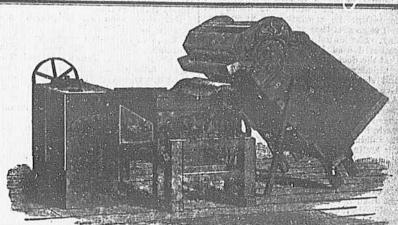

Has long been before the public, and is too well known to need any further description. Its chief points of merits are: It takes very little room, is easily handled, and takes so little power; can be used on all kinds of powers—horse, water or steam. Ginning and packing can all go on at the same time, without interiering with the Gin. A two-inch belt will pack a 500 lb. bale of cotton. It saves its cost the first scason in labor. THE EST OF STATES HE STATE

THE DANIEL PRATT GIN, FEEDER and CONDENSER

MANUFACTURED at Frattville, Ala., has been sold for fifty-two years, during which time over 25,000 Gins have been turned out, and are in use in every Cotton growing State of the Union, Mexico, South America and the British East Indies.

The Gins are more simple, less complicated and less liable to get out of order, stronger and more substantial than any Gin now offered; and being so well known to the Farmer and Public Ginner in this and the surrounding Counties, that we feel it unnecessive to the least the testiment of the surrounding Counties. sary to give lengthy testimonials and references. We are prepared to fill all orders promptly, and as there is alwe, a rush in the latter part of the season, we would suggest that you give us your order at once, to insure prompt delivery. Our prices are as low as a first-class Gin can be sold, and our terms are as favorable as any purchaser could desire. Every Gin, Feeder and Condenser is guaranteed to give full satisfaction before payment for same is required.

If you have an idea of buying a Gin this season, do not fail to call and see us. We will take great pleasure in giving all necessary information and references to parties who have bought from us. Thanking you for your patronage in the past, we respectfully solicit a continuance of the same. When in need of-
